To whom it may concern,

I have experienced Mandy's emotionally supportive and valuable relationship-building insights as a Life Coach, having worked with her for a number of years. She brings decades of experience in dealing with people's emotional needs and combines this with great insights and lessons from the natural environment.

Through her dedicated work as an Eco-psychologist, she has taken many people into Wilderness Places to spend time with Wild Animals, Dolphins and Tribal People. I have personally experienced time with her in the Umfolozi Wilderness, where we arranged the first disabled walking trail in this reserve. Her abilities and insights have led to huge personal and professional growth for individuals.

With recommendation,

Anton Raimondo
